courregate all the discontented people, those who from various reasons have lost industry for housekeeping and thrift for plain boarding. They are like birds in a cage, always tempting others to come to the hotel to live, and yet always desirons themselves to get back again to some substantial life. At the notel you not only get all the news, but all the scandal. It becomes the snoozing and boozing place for the young fellows around the town, who there tell their old stories and cultivate the barkeeper, and I have often ob-served that the barkeeper is the favorite guest in the hotel. You can see young mill-ionaires, or expectants that way, leaning on the bars telling their private family life to the bar-keeper. Liquor encourages convivial intercourse, and the bar-keeper here is like intercourse, and the bar-keeper here is like the bar-maid in England—some one to make love to when all other social in'ercourse is frustrated. The bar-keeper wears such a nice white apron, such a spotless shirt, has his hair frizzed every morning, is dainty about his shoes, he juggles the crystal glasses so deftly that he would seem to be what the ladio; call "such a refined man" what the ladies call "such a refined man," When a man has got a hollow stomach, looks pale and weak from his secret excesses, and has finally not much of anything but a soft address, insinuations and good suit of clothes, he gets the rane of being "so refined." Some American towns are altogether in-ferior in the matter of hotels, while others are too well provided. There are a good many hotels in this country, with some great, unwieldy, rickety old house put up in the speculative day, too big to keep clean, its furniture dropping to pieces, and still there is the elevator running like the worm that never dieth. When the cook is underpaid, the laborers mutinous, the chamber maids insolent and the ceiling falling down, you can desend on two thing being steadfast, the barkeeper and the elevator boy. They will ride you upstairs, whatever else they may do unjustly to you. Some of our hotels, crected in the proper manner to meet a real want, continue to be profitable all the time. These are often fatal examples to multiply hotels where they are not wanted. The Fifth Avenue hotel New York produces a rent of about $250,000 a year. It was built some time before the rebellion. The proprietor had ready money and a good credit, and he bought a piece of ground hardly matched on the globe and put up this fine house, and has always had responsible tenants, most of whom have mad Hotels require to m et a demand rather than to make one. Paran Stevens was the most fortunate American hotelkeeper, be-cause he knew the business and had capital and credit at the very time when we stepping out in hotel enterprise, so as to en-counter a new wave in intercourse. Yet Stevens made some foolish investments. The Victoria hotel, as it is now called in New York, was put up under the name of the Steve is house, to be a series of apartment residences. The ground and building cost too much, some say $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 and now it has had to be razed to be a regular hotel at so much a day. I should think it impossible that on such valuations as the above it could make reasonable interest. The Brunswick hotel, opposite the Victoria, has been built up by a steward from the Hoffman house. It cost a great deal of monor of the case as the state of the case as the state of the case as the state of the case of house. It cost a great deal of money and charges very high prices, yet several times has been in a hard condition from want of real cash. The St. James, which Mr. Sprague, formerly of Cincinnati, and Mr. Connor. the theatrical manager, took together at a rent of $13,009 before, has just retired Mr. Sprague, who re-ceived, I understand, $29,000 from Mr. Conner for his third interest in the lease. Thi property was tuilt up by Walton in the day when he was successful in betting, and prob ably was worth to him more than to any other person. It is one of the best hotels in New York, but the rent is too high. The great hotel called the Murray Hill house, put up by an omnibus man who had a fat take in Tweed's time, has found a tenant, and is about to be opened. A large hotel is about to be erected at the Central park gates by a combination of builders, and, to show how nothing goes smoothly in this world, the bricklayers, etc., have just struck on all these buildings for shorter hours of work, so that the contractors are menanced with ruin the one side or short profits on the other. The best summer business in this country now is of the cheapkind. There are but fee are, perhaps, more people in the country thi Park are, perhaps, the two largest settleme mer character on the American coast, and both are of a cheap nature. The average cottage at Atlantic City probably costs less than $2,000. The best hotel, the stopped as late as 1852 at the best hotels in New York city, and they made more money than they do now at $4.50 a day. The huge, overgrown hotels which May, cost the West Jersey railroad more than haif a million dollars. It was built, like many of these hotels, to draw railroad travel. Labor at that time was $5 and $6 a day. Last year it lost $40,000 to the railroad, which re solved this year to shut it up, unless it coul

DR. H. H. YOST. PRACTICAL AND SCIENTIFIC

First Door Morth of Postoffice.

"Good morning, Descon; you walk off as spry as a boy, for all you are so old."

"Why, law bless you. I can't help it; I can ace so well with my new spectacles it appears to put new life in me. I actually feel twenty years younger, and I have had them only a short time. You see, I did not buy when Dr. Yost first came to wichita; I thought I would just wait and let some others try. I had paid out so much money for spectacles, and my eyes were getting poorer and poorer all the time, that I had about despaired of ever getting anything that would stay the dreadful loas of sight. But when I came to see and talk with my neighbors, and with people from other narts of the country who had used Dr. Yost's improved leases (some of them for years), I concluded I would try it once more, and I am frank to confess they are far ahead of my expectations. Oh, yes, it's a hard country on eyesight. All this western prairie country is much harder on on the eyes than the eastern states, and come to think of it. It is as much out of place to try to use the old style of spectacles here in Kansas as it would be to try to farm with the old style of farming tools and, sir, I don't hesitate to say that the man that wont go to Dr. Yost and be fitted with a pair of his improved lenses ought to have his self-binder and improved plows taken from him, and be compelled to cut his grain with the old hand sickle and plow with the wooden-mouldboard plow."

It is just as important to use improved lenses properly fitted, in order to save grain in this western country.

No use talking nothing short of Dr. Yost's western country.

No use talking, nothing short of Dr. Yost's improved spectacles will save the vision in this day and age.
